Federal grand jury indicts truck driver

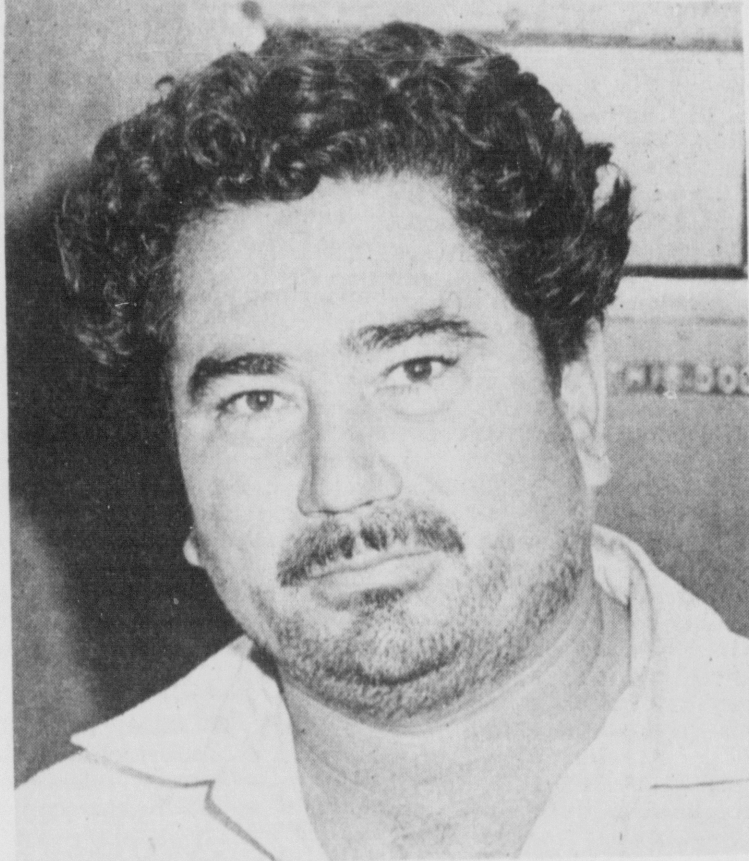

A federal grand jury in St. Louis Thursday returned a 12-count indictment against Octavio Ortiz-Alvarez, 39, of Orange Grove, Tex., for transporting aliens who had unlawfully entered the country.

Ortiz-Alvarez, previously identified as Alvarez Ortiz due to a language barrier misunderstanding, was being held in St. Louis on $50,000 bond.

Ortiz-Alvarez was driving a truck carrying 51 other people, including 47 illegal aliens, when it slid into the rear of a moving van parked on the side of Interstate Highway 55, eight miles south of Sikeston, killing 10 men riding in the back of the truck.

Nine were killed instantly. The 10th, Restor Villcana of Zimatan, Hidalgo, died at 12:50 a.m. today in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Eight more men remain at the hospital in very serious condition. One man is in Methodist Hospital in Memphis in critical condition.

Each charge against Ortiz-Alvarez carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine. Ortiz-Alvarez is due to either Monday or next Friday.

U. S. Attorney Jim Reeves said the investigation into the incident was continuing and no decision had yet been made on whether to seek further indictments.

Twenty-two of the Mexicans were transferred from Sikeston and Scott County Jail to St. Louis Thursday evening. The remaining three of the Mexicans will be transferred today. From St. Louis they will be taken by bus to the Mexican border, according to immigration officials.

The Mexicans were enroute from picking tomatoes near Little Rock, Ark., to Chicago, where the men hoped to get factory work for the winter.

"The entire load entered the country illegally at various times, ranging from last February to July 12, always at night," said C. R. Schooler, of the immigration service.

The nine men who had previously died in the accident were buried today in a common grave at Latham Cemetery in New Madrid with Richards Funeral Home in charge of the arrangements.

7 injured in traffic accidents

Seven persons were injured Thursday in three traffic accidents in the Bootheel area, the highway patrol reported today.

A West Plains woman was injured at 2:30 p.m. When the car in which she was a passenger stopped on Highway 60 for oncoming traffic to turn left and was struck from behind by a car driven by Glenda Wolpers, 27, of Puxico.

Wanda Hall, 49, received a broken pelvis bone and was taken to Dexter Hospital. Her husband, the driver of the car, was not injured.

Carol Nelson, 15, of Hornersville, a passenger in a car driven by Joe Stringer, 77, of Steele was injured at 5 p.m. on Highway 162 two miles west of Steele.

The accident occurred when Stringer reached down to pick up something from the floorboard, lost control of his car and struck a bridge bannister.

Miss Nelson was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti with a cut on her right elbow.

Five persons were injured in a head-on collision at 9:20 p.m. one mile east of Delta on Route EE.

The accident happened when a car driven west by Robert Scott, 27, of Kansas City rounded a curve at an excessive rate of speed on the wrong side of the road and hit headon with an eastbound auto driven by Ray Gramlish, 18, of Chaffee.

Gramlish received head and body cuts and a possible chest injury and Karen Gramlish, 19, of Chaffee suffered head cuts. Scott and a passenger, Terry McMullin, 25, of Whitewater sustained head cuts. Another passenger, Samuel Thompson, 21, of Whitewater, received cuts and a fractured hip. All were taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

Landfill cost statement clarified

BENTON—A statement made by Tony Heckemeyer, a former representative from Scott County to the Missouri House of Representatives, in a closed meeting Monday of Scott County mayors and judges to discuss a sanitary landfill for the county, has resulted in an apparent misunderstanding.

Heckemeyer told mayors and judges that it would cost an individual wanting to open a landfill $6,500 and 45 days to receive a permit.

Second District Judge Louie Hirschowitz said he and other members of the court had been contacted by citizens wanting to know if the permit itself would cost this amount. The judge telephoned Paul Dowd, director of Missouri Association of Counties in Jefferson City and asked him to research this. Hirschowitz said Dowd talked with Ralph Fredrickson of the Division of Public Health Solid Waste Division of Jefferson City, who told him there was no actual cost for the permit. An applicant must just comply with the regulations.

Heckemeyer this morning told The Daily Standard that when he made the statement, he did not mean the permit itself would cost $6,500, but rather that the process and expense an individual would have to go through would amount to about $6500.

He explained that since a request for a permit to the state can not be submitted by an individual, he would have to hire an engineer.

"This is very expensive," Heckemeyer said. The engineer has to draw up plans, make surveys and do a lot of other work, adding at some point that a small building would have to be acquired by the person.

"My statement," Heckemeyer said, "referred to how much it would cost to put a landfill into operation, not the permit itself."

Beef bill passes Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to take the lid off beef prices immediately, instead of Sept. 12, as announced by the administration, has passed the Senate but appears stalled in the House.

After the Senate action Thursday, the House Rules Committee voted 9 to 6 to wait until Congress returns from its summer recess Sept. 5 before any action on the bill.

The Senate earlier had voted 84 to 5 to put beef in the same price-control category as other foods.

Under Phase 4 economic guidelines, President Nixon lifted the freeze on other food prices on July 18 but retained the ceiling on beef until Sept. 12.

More meat plants close

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A federal judge in San Francisco says he will rule shortly on a suit asking for removal of the beef price freeze the meat industry claims is damming supplies and picking off its operations.

More meat packing plants announced shutdowns Thursday, in Pennsylvania, California, Texas and Nebraska.

"We haven't closed this plant in 25 years," said William Hughes, president of King Meat Packing Co. in Vernon, Calif., one of six packing plants there that announced they were closing.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham said he would rule today or Monday on the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association's request for a preliminary injunction to stop the Cost of Living Council from enforcing the price freeze.

The suit claims that the price ceiling on beef, effective under Phase 4 guidelines until Sept. 12, discriminates against beef slaughterers and wholesalers who are unable to pass along the higher costs of cattle.

The freeze on other food prices was lifted by President Nixon on July 18.

Sanford gets 3 years in jail

BENTON — Rufus Roy Sanford Jr. of Scott City was sentenced to three years in custody of the State Department of Correction by Judge Marshall Craig Thursday in Circuit Court. Sanford was charged with

According to Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore, Sanford will be given credit

Mexicans coming in growing numbers, despite hardships

By RON PORTER

The 45 Mexicans aboard a truck which crashed south of Sikeston this week, were just part of a growing wave of illegal entries which is resulting in 10,000 to 15,000 arrests per week along the U.S.-Mexican border alone.

The Mexicans, who were aboard the truck, came from Central Mexico, one of the poorest parts of the country, according to Ernest Martinez of the U.S. Immigration Service.

Martinez is a Mexican-American, originally from Austin, Tex.

The land is farm land, Martinez said. If it doesn't rain the people can starve to death. The men leave the area, their parents, wives and children, and come to the United States, staying as long as possible and earning as much as they can.

The men found here earned between $1.25 and $1.65 per hour, depending on what the farmer wanted to pay them. They were working in the tomato fields near Little Rock, Ark., before the accident. They were en route to Chicago, Ill. to get factory work for the winter, immigration officials said yesterday.

Most of the men stay here as long as possible, Martinez said, and then return to Mexico. For many, the return means a chance to start a little business, for others a chance to buy a few luxury items.

For some, life in Mexico does not have any attractions; personal problems may drive them to return to the U.S. or the desire for more luxury goods. For instance, Martinez said, they may buy a television set after one trip and then decide they want stereo, so they return for more money.

One U.S. dollar is worth 12.5 Pesos, Martinez said. One of the men had been in the United States for six months and was carrying $700. Multiply $700 by 12.5, and in Mexico the man's a millionaire, Martinez said. Actually, the man has the equivalent of $5,750.

But to get it he had to work 12 to 18 hours a day in farm fields under a broiling sun. Sometimes the illegal Mexicans find themselves sleeping on the floor of huts or on the ground as they work their way along the migrant circuit.

Its a rough life, Martinez said, "But if its all you know, its all you can do." He said many of the men had never been to school and were illiterate. All but three of the men were taken from the Sikeston jail Thursday to St. Louis. From there they will be deported to Mexico. But they'll be back, Martinez said.

He said some of the men arrested here were deported previously, some as recently as two or three months ago.

But if the Mexicans had a rough life, the man who was driving them to Chicago didn't. Octavio Ortiz-Alvarez of Orange Grove, Tex., recently paid a $2,000 down payment on the 1973 truck in which he was hauling the Mexicans at the time of the accident.

Martinez said it only cost Ortiz-Alvarez $50 to $60 to make the trip from Texas to Chicago. He was charging the 45 Mexicans $50 apiece for the ride.

Ortiz-Alvarez, was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on 12 counts of transporting illegal aliens. He was previously identified as Alvarez Ortiz, an error which resulted because of the language barrier.

Kakac, Drummond take new offices

EAST PRAIRIE—Robert L. Kakac, 32, of Highland, Ill., employed July 24 as city manager, officially began his duties at City Hall Wednesday and Sidney Drummond, 32, a lifelong resident of East Prairie assumed duties as police judge Thursday.

Since July 1970, Kakac has been employed as office manager for the city of Highland and in the absence of the city manager since December 1971, he assumed many of the manager's duties.

Kakac said he was impressed with the friendliness of the townspeople, could foresee a lot of work ahead before the completion of projects now underway and was looking forward to the challenge.

He and his wife, Joan, and their 18-month-old daughter, Melora, live at County Estates on Route Two and are members of United Church of Christ.

Drummond fills the position left vacant July 31 by the resignation of K. E. Jackson. He is a graduate of East Prairie High School, served two years in the Army and eight years in the Naval Air Reserve and is associated with his father, Thurston Drummond, in the operation of Drummond and Son Service Station. He and his wife, the former Janice Scott and their daughter, Leigh, 6, live at 209 William Street.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

There are a good many exceptions to the rule of common sense.

EVERYBODY TALKS ABOUT IT, AND ...

Weird weather has plagued much of the nation and the world during 1973. Blizzards, floods, tornados and droughts hit with unusual fury in unexpected places. As hurricane season now approaches, the ancient problem of weather forecasting, along with the fledgling science of weather control, are stirring new public interest. The question of whether mankind can -- or should -- control the earth's weather may become a major environmental issue of the next decade. But in the meantime, people harmed by freakish weather phenomena are wondering why weathermen can't do a better job of predicting catastrophic storms.

The truth is that today's meteorologists can warn of some dangerous weather more accurately than in the past. Tornados, which have killed nearly twice as many people as hurricanes in the past 50 years, can be pinpointed precisely before they occur. Computerized daily reports by the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City consider temperatures, humidity, wind speed and direction, and wind shear -- the difference between high - and low-level winds and a crucial ingredient of tornados. The data form the basis for nationwide tornado watches. As a result of such predictions, only 27 persons were killed by tornados last year, the lowest number since the Weather Service began keeping records in 1922.

Weather specialists also are learning more about the long-range causes of abnormal weather patterns. Many of them believe that changes in the jet stream led to the mild weather in the Northeast last winter and to heavy snows in the South. Another theory holds that changing ocean temperatures have altered wind currents and thus the world's weather. A Czech meteorologist claims that periods of mild and harsh weather are predictable on a century-long scale, and others have linked this pattern to expansion and shrinkage of the polar ice caps. One of the latest theories correlates global weather with solar magnetic field activity, which seems to alter the earth's atmosphere and usually precedes major storms. "We will never forecast the weather until the meteorologist learns to take account of such big effects as these," says Eugene N. Parker of the University of Chicago.

Weather control has come a long way since 1946, when the first artificial snowstorm was produced by seeding clouds with dry ice. Rainmaking, hail suppression, fog dispersal and hurricane modification all are practiced today with varying degrees of success both in federal and private projects. But serious legal and environmental problems have arisen, such as when a California utility seeded clouds to increased rainfall above its electric-power dams and a disastrous flood in the valley below promptly followed. More than 25 states have passed laws to regulate weather modification, creating a legislative hodge-podge. Congress will no doubt soon be forced to deal with this modern version of Thor's hammer.

Prof. Bob Miller figures the reason that most after dinner speakers are men is that women can't wait that long.

According to news reports, the alarming rise in forcible rape (last year saw an 11 per cent increase compared to 6 per cent for the second highest climbing category -- aggravated assault) is arousing calls for more stringent penalties. A Baltimore grand jury recently joined Rev. Billy Graham in calling for castration of rapists. Adding to the alarm is the fact that the 11 per cent increase could be way off the true mark, since many rapes go unreported due to the victim's fear of public embarrassment.

KEYSTONE OF CIVILIZATION

Recognizing that the railroads are a bellwether segment of transportation, other surface carriers -- competitors of the railroads, such as the regulated water and motor carriers -- have worked with the rails to convince the nation's lawmakers of the necessity of recognizing that common carrier transportation ceased to be a rail monopoly many decades ago -- a fact that is still to be acknowledged in public regulatory policies. The longer that acknowledgment is delayed, the greater the peril to the prosperity and economic welfare of millions.

In the case of transportation legislation, the deliberations of the democratic process are rapidly going beyond the point of acceptance in the minds of reasonable men. Two events of recent years, having to do with railroads, should be impressed upon the public, shippers and legislative bodies to the maximum extent possible. The first is that the problems of no industry have been studied, investigated and analyzed in greater detail than have those of the railroads -- nor has any industry received wider agreement and support for recommended solutions to its problems.

The other event of recent years having to do with railroads is the marked growth of awareness that rails are more essential as movers of goods today than ever before. A growing number of experts have made it clear that the rails -- like energy -- are a keystone of civilization as we know it. Continued procrastination in resolving the transportation legislative and regulatory dilemma is nothing less than an invitation to chaos.

NIXON'S SHIELD OF LEGALITY

President Nixon has now succeeded in making the argument over the propriety of withholding information about Watergate from the public, Congress and the courts into a legal dispute. The legal issue will be settled in the courts on the basis of the interpretation given such murky concepts as inherent powers, presidential authority, executive privilege and separation of powers.

However the courts rule on the legalities, the unblinking fact is that the President is untenable one in the context attempting to use the authority of a case in which the President of his office to prevent full disclosure of White House involvement in Watergate.

What is "legal" is not necessarily proper. Republicans thought it was "legal" to collect millions of dollars in secret campaign contributions, "Executive privilege will not be but that was not proper. It was invoked as to any testimony "legal" for the President to bug his office conversations, but his office conducted, in the matters prove to be "legal" to withhold documents and tapes bearing on Watergate, but that would not be proper.

The President's position is that he alone should determine what information in his possession can be given to the public, Congress and the grand jury. The President is willing to hand over a few papers, but not the bulk of what investigators seek. The President thus proclaims a right to pick and choose and be the sole judge of what the public and duly constituted investigative agencies learn.

In rejecting the Ervin committee's request for access to documents and recordings bearing on Watergate, the President declared: "Executive privilege is being invoked only with regard to documents and recordings that cannot be made public consistent with the confidentiality essential to the functioning of the office of the President." That is a noble-sounding sentiment, but it is an

The President has agreed to obey court orders requiring disclosure. That is reassuring. But it is not reassuring that the President is using every legal maneuver in the book to keep the public from learning the facts.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

The Mob Bomb: Secret Ford Report

WASHINGTON-- There is grave danger that stolen nuclear weapons may fall into the hands of terrorists, Mafia gangsters, black marketeers or perhaps some lone psychopath with megalomaniac visions of an atomic hijack.

This specter of whole cities in jeopardy from bootleg weapons is not the pipedream of a doom-minded science fiction writer. Rather, it is the finding of prestigious Ford Foundation scientists in a 575-page draft report stamped with warnings against public release.

"It is all too easy to imagine innumerable possibilities for nuclear diversion--a parade of horrors," declares the hush-hush document. "One individual could derive, from published information, a way for him working along, to build a simple fission explosive device."

Given Yankee ingenuity at building everything from rockets to steam engines to heroin laboratories in garages, says the report, "we would guess there are at least many thousands of persons who could make a fission explosive device if they wanted to and possessed the requisite nuclear material." Construction would take only a "few weeks," GEIGER COUNTERS

"The only equipment required beyond what is commonly available for home workshop use would be...ordinary Geiger counter (and) protective hoods," states the Ford Foundation document.

The nuclear materials needed for the weapons are poorly safeguarded and will become increasingly available as plutonium-breeding plants are constructed to replace conventional generators.

"By 1980, tens of thousands of kilograms of nuclear weapon materials will be present in the U. S. nuclear power industry," warns a report. Not too many grams are needed to make a bomb that could kill hundreds of thousands.

The device itself, says the report, might be constructed by a single corrupt scientist, a band of outlaw engineers or a nuclear expert held captive by the Mafia or by terrorists.

"If present trends continue, it seems only a question of time before some terrorist group exploits the possibilities for coercion which are latent in nuclear fuel," warns the report. Already, a Florida extortionist has tried to use an imaginary nuclear weapon to extort $1 million from a municipality.

TERRORISTS

There is every indication that terrorists would be "quite willing to resort to unlimited violence." Even if the terrorists hesitated to set off a nuclear device, they might peddle stolen or homemade nukes to black marketeers for funds or use them for blackmail.

"Theft of a large amount of nuclear material would not only acquire for the terrorist group a significant capability," says the document, "but...could generate widespread anxiety (in) the country where it occurred (and) in a country or countries against which the group's activities might be aimed ultimately."

The Mafia, suggests the report, may want nuclear weapons not only for black marketing and ransom deals, but to place themselves "beyond the reach of law enforcement authorities."

With nukes in the possession of the Mafia, a community could be forced to back off from criminal prosecutions "against a broad range of lucrative criminal operations."

"LARGE-SCALE HARM"

"In order to employ such a deterrent, the criminal group possessing such a weapon would have to be willing to inflict large-scale, indiscriminate harm on society." The two famed professors who authored the report, Theodore Taylor and Mason Willrich, do not need to point out that the Mafia has no qualms about such "large-scale" harm--as evidenced by the lethal narcotics trade.

The criminal mastermind behind the Mob Bomb might be sent to a fine graduate school by the syndicate to hone his knowledge, or the "group might recruit or bomb which could explode within our own lifetime. There are three reasons for this:

1. The massive increase in the number of beneficiaries accompanied by a much more gradual increase in contributors.

2. Last year's linking of benefits after 1974 with rises in the Consumer Price Index.

3. The inability of Congress to forego Social Security increases before or after every biennial election since 1950, a political popular pattern which is unlikely to change.

The increase in the number of beneficiaries has resulted both from longer life expectancy trends and from expanding coverage to include groups -- farmers, domestic workers, clergy, the self-employed, widows and widowers, disabled workers and dependents -- not covered by the original act.

In 1947, there were 2 million Social Security recipients. By 1957, there were 11.1 million. Today there are 28.1 million. As the "baby boom" children of the 1940s and 1950s reach retirement age at the end of the century, the number of recipients will grow at an increasing rate.

That's fine. Everybody, not to mention those of us who are nearing S.S. age, likes to see the old folks taken care of. But who is going to pay for it?

The answer is that those in active employment will pay. But the ratio between those in civilian employment and those receiving benefits has been falling rapidly since the system began as we approach zero population growth, and will continue to do so.

In 1947, there were slightly more than 22 workers for every one taking money out. This trend continues today and will do so tomorrow.

The dollar amounts involved have become truly staggering. Payments went from $1 billion in 1950 to $11 billion in 1960, to $56 billion this year. By 1984, they may well reach $250 billion.

Despite the fact that the rate at which earnings are taxed has reached an unprecedented 11.7 per cent and will rise to 12.1 per cent in 1978, it is untrue that the system is self-supporting. Given the 71.6 per cent cumulative rise in payments over the last five years and the booster clause which will automatically hike payments with each 3 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index, the average married worker who joined the system in 1940 and retires in 1975 will receive roughly 10 times the amount he contributed. He is not getting back what he paid into the fund but what a future generation of workers will pay into it.

Current Social Security reserves amount to only about $37 billion, or about the equivalent of nine months' payments, a situation which would hardly be considered kidnap" a specialist.

"A foreign government might be willing to host a clandestine manufacturing operation" so the Mafia family could "maintain a small stockpile of weapons for its own protection," the report says.

Taylor and Willrich say it is possible that political factions in a foreign government might buy a bomb to blackmail its way into power. But even in these days of Watergate, the scientists don't believe the Republicans or Democrats in the United States would use such "election" tactics.

BLACK MARKETS

The report deals extensively with potential black markets whose nuclear wares would be available to everyone from cranks to military adventurers.

"An initial sale or two of nuclear weapons to petty dictators with dreams of glory might enable the operators in a nuclear black market to play on the fears of more responsible leaders...Like the risks of nuclear diversion, the dimensions of a nuclear black market are potentially global."

What does the Ford Foundation foresee as the possible grim outcome of nuclear thievery?

"The costs of evacuation and decontamination of several square kilometers of urban or intensively cultivated agricultural area by a few grams of dispersed, finely divided plutonium would be tens of hundreds of millions of dollars..."

"IMMENSE COSTS"

"The hundreds of thousands of people who might be killed by controlled dispersal of plutonium, or tens of thousands...who might be killed by a low yield nuclear explosion in a very densely populated area represent incalculable but immense costs..."

Footnote: Despite strict secrecy stamps put on the draft document by the Ford Foundation, the authors make clear in the text they want it eventually released to the public. In a future column, we will outline the present lack of safeguards against nuclear theft and the authors' proposed remedies.

fiscally sound were it a corporate retirement scheme. As a higher percentage of the voting population goes on the retirement rolls, Congress probably will not be able to resist the temptation to grant increases.

With its payroll taxes ballooning, industry has only two choices: increase prices during periods when it is free of controls (which is inflationary) or reduce by automation the number of employed (which places additional burdens on those who remain at work).

With receipts from Social Security payroll taxes now 60 per cent as large as personal income tax receipts and half again as large as corporate income taxes, Social Security has grown from Wagner's modest proposal to a fiscal Frankenstein of an income redistribution scheme in which an annually shrinking active percentage of the population is called on to support an inactive percentage which is growing larger every year.

The time may come when those who work simply are financially incapable of supporting those who do not. That will be the political bombshell of the century, for sure.

Since the energy crisis is front-page news, radicals and revolutionaries are trying to capitalize on the concern which citizens feel on this issue.

The Georgia Powder Project (GPP), based in Atlanta, is an example of the tactics we may expect Marxist revolutionaries to employ with increasing frequency. In its literature, GPP openly declares: "One of the major areas of political struggle in the coming years is undoubtedly going to be the production, distribution and use of energy...Socialists must begin to make themselves a part of the struggles going on around the question of power and energy... This issue can help make socialism a viable alternative in American life in the next few years."

The GPP includes representatives from the Trotskyite Socialist Workers and Workers World parties, the Marxist-Leninist-Maoist October League from Berkeley, Cal., and the Southern Conference Educational Fund and the Highlander Center, both of which have been associated with the Communist Party.

The GPP sponsored an "Energy Conference" in Atlanta this spring in an effort to expand its activities throughout the nation. The major speakers were James Ridgeway, associate editor of farleft "Ramparts" magazine; Robb Burlage, a founder of the radical medical organization Health-Pac; and Maoist Barry Weisberg, who recently visited Red China and has advocated using "whatever means possible" to destroy "critical installations" of private enterprise.

The energy crisis is not going to be solved by Maoists and revolutionaries. We need to give more support to our personal enterprisers who are working to bring a high standard of living to their fellow citizens. H.L.H.

Secret Meetings: New Black and White Coalition Hammering Labor's Leadership-- From the Inside

WASHINGTON-- Slowly, imperceptibly and confidentially, a powerful coalition of black and white union chiefs have been meeting in various cities "dialoguing" into shape a strong anti-establishment bloc inside labor. In effect, they're anti-tube. They believe the televised Watergate hearings have glued the public-- especially working people-- into a sort of political paralysis.

And the coalition wants action. They want to hit the streets. They want demonstrations. And, says one of them, "We shall run them on Labor Day, if not sooner." They believe today's labor movement is too much right of center; that there is no stirring, no organizing, no "crusades" with the possible exception of Cesar Chavez in the California fields.

They lead powerful unions. They met first in New York at an eggs- and salmon breakfast off- the record two- hour conference on June 21.

In the "dialogue" were Leonard Woodcock, president of the 615,000- member independent United Auto Workers; Jerry Wurf, president of the State County and Municipal Employees (the nation's swiftest growing union); William Lucy, the union's 39- year- old secretary-treasurer who is the nation's highest ranking black union leader; a priest, Father Gigante; the Reverend Jesse Jackson; and former Democratic Party vice chairman Basis Paterson, who attained the highest post any black has ever held in any major party.

Next they gathered in the Chicago national headquarters of the meat cutters union. That was on July 6. For a full day they talked of the movement within the movement.

Some of them have met in other cities since. They believe the AFL-CIO bedrock building and construction trades are too staid, too bourgeois, too meticulously and dedicatedly "middle class."

They dislike Secretary of Labor Pete Brennan, a former building trades union official.

"I would like to do something to make him disappear," Lucy said once. "I'd like to see him replaced with someone who is either clearly White House and doesn't travel under the cloak of labor, or someone who is labor and is prepared to represent the interest of workers."

Bill Lucy's voice is as soft as his opinions are hard- hitting. Rapidly he's becoming the symbol of the new black in the working class leadership. As the chief spokesman for the Coalition of Black Trade Unionists, which is deep in the floating closed- door dialogues, Lucy now has a strong base. Always strongly supported by the articulate, machine- gun- tongued Jerry Wurf, Lucy is of tomorrow's national headlines.

It is not just his active role in the secret meetings which give him his influence. It is the Coalition of Black Trade Unionists. When they concluded their second convention in Washington last May, the Coalition leadership had the blueprint complete for their national black movement.

They had scheduled the launching of local chapters in Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other major cities by Sept. 15. They had a dues structure-- $5 per workman annually, $25 for blacks who hold staff jobs in any union, and $50 a year for officials such as Lucy or Charles Hayes, a Meat Cutters vice president.

There will, of course, be other funding. The unions supporting them are big and solvent. In them are hundreds of thousands of black workers. In some cities, alliance is being sought with Puerto Rican and Chicano unionists.

It is the new beginning. They want full partnership with the white leaders-- and the black. They are seeking out members of the Congressional Black Caucus and telling them like it is.

For a long time now the black worker has been "represented" by the octogenarian former Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters president, AFL- CIO vice president A. Philip Randolph. But Phil is aging swiftly these days. Still resonant. Still venerated. But ailing.

Only two of the 35- member AFL- CIO Executive Council which gathered in Chicago this week are black. The 84- year- old Randolph is one. The other is the genial actor, Fred O'Neal, once of Tarzan fame, now head of the Associated Actors and Artists of America.

There is no quarrel with O'Neal. But the Black Coalition and their allies of the confidential dialogues believe the time has come to name other blacks to the high council-- blacks from powerful unions. There will be many council vacancies when the national AFL- CIO convention is gavelled to order by George Meany Oct. 18.

The new militant blacks will want their place in the sun when the nominations are made in the Bal Harbour (Fla.) hall. There may be high drama. There's something new stirring in the old movement on the streets and deep inside.

Old friendships not as strong as thought

Dear Ann Landers: I felt a strong kinship with the woman who wrote that she blushed all day and couldn't face her boss because of the dreams she was having about him. Your advice, "Get another job," was sound. I hope she takes it.

I was in the same spot ten years ago and walk out of that office is more than I will ever know. Today I have a fine husband and family and my wonderful ex-boss's family is intact. It might not have been had I stayed around.

It's easy to fall in love with a man you see every day, especially if he is attractive and successful. A secretary can make herself "indispensable." She can also be more interesting to a man than his wife. A secretary and boss have so much to talk about that has nothing to do with problems—children, in-laws, repair bills and other troublesome and boring topics.

I hope the secretaries out there who find their bosses dangerously appealing will take this letter seriously. The minute you feel yourself falling, girls, clean out your desk and leave.--- Glad I Did

Dear Glad: How right you are. Preventive medicine is infinitely less expensive and less painful than a cure. Thanks for telling it like it is.

Dear Ann Landers: What is real friendship? The longer I live, the less I'm sure. We lived in a Midwestern city for 20 years. Six couples in our circle were very close.

Eight years ago we moved East. We have invited every one of these couples to visit us. Not one has. We've written dozens of letters and made countless long-distance phone calls. A handful have acknowledged the letters. No one has ever phoned us. We wouldn't know they were alive if it weren't for the Christmas cards and periodic rash of "invitations" to birthday celebrations, the anniversary parties, the graduation announcements, weddings of their children, and now the christenings of their grandchildren. This week I received six.

Both my husband and I feel that our old friends have given no indication they really care about us. We've decided to ignore all the mailing pieces. Are we wrong?---Even Up

Dear Up: Neither distance nor time diminishes true friendship. I suspect the quality of the relationships was not as genuine as you thought.

It is possible to feel warmly about people you haven't seen for many years, but friendships must be tended like gardens and people take care of the things they really care about.

Dear Ann Landers: Regarding the photographic buff who wants to enter a nude picture of his wife in a local art contest:

Many centuries ago Herodotus wrote of a Persian King who had a very beautiful wife. He was so proud of her body that he invited his best friend to hide behind the draperies in their bedroom. The friend was delighted.

The Queen became aware of the plan. On that extraordinary night she manufactured an excuse to send the King on an errand. When he left she told his friend, "When the King returns, either you will kill him and marry me and become King or I will scream and order the guards to kill you."

That's how Persia got a new King.---History Buff

Dear Buff: It's easier to inherit the job from your father. Thanks for writing.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage---What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope.

THE PERIL OF GREED

Money and other possessions and the ability to acquire them are God-given. However, they are to be used as means to glorify God and serve mankind.

Today's lesson concerns the Tenth Commandment, one that creates considerable debate even today. Certainly, it is appropriate for all to review the Scriptures concerning greed or envy or covetousness. All of these words describe the problem.

This commandment is explicit and comprehensive. It has negative as well as positive instructions. It is easy to understand. Yet it is avoided by too many individuals, who would rather not be reminded of God's instructions on greed.
Man should hold all of his life in subservience to the will of the Lord, keeping in mind the concept that a man's life is more important than his personal possessions.

More than twenty centuries ago it was written that "From love comes grief; from greed comes fear; he who is free from greed knows neither grief nor fear."

Greed, or covetousness, can make a man miserable. William Penn, in 1693, said, "Cov-etousness is the greatest of monsters, as well as the root of all evil."

Mere longing for a possession is not greed. Yet when one desires something at the expense of others, he is violating God's commandment.

In fact, it has been said that such envy can bring "hell in this life" for the greedy person.

"OLD BUT GOLD"

Riding the crest of the wave of modern society, young people boast of penetrating insights into the rules for the game of life. "Don't feed me hypocrisy," we cry, "let's keep it straight and from the heart. Don't cloud the issues with irrelevant cliches, let's get at the truth. Don't bog the system with delays and time outs, let's face it full force and full steam."

Sometimes, though, it is easy for us to fasten our gaze upon the beach, forgetting the thundering surf which rides behind, forgetting that sheer tonnage of tide which supports all forward movement. We enjoy discounting all that is not of modern origin by plugging it as "out of touch". "The ancients have nothing for me. This is the twentieth century." Remember how the disc jockeys labeled the "old records"? Their commentary referred to the records as "old but gold". Maybe, likewise, the humid breathe of history is not poison to be shunned, but tonic to be welcomed. The steady mental surge from the giants of history is the support which goes unheralded but unvanquished. Let it now find rewards in students well studied.

Saint Francis of Assisi, an old timer, prayed, "Lord, make me an instrument of your peace." This prayer of Francis' is a passion needed to be cherished by all today. Yet, why speak of world peace when conflict still plunders the heart. Or, maybe that is exactly what Francis prayed for. More than wealth, more than fame, people seek peace of mind and peace of heart. A new rule to the game might be "don't fret on the secondary, concentrate on the primary."

Jesus Christ, the greatest of them all, said, "My peace I give unto you. It is a peace which passes all comprehension".

Stories of courage and christianity

By David Poling

Yes, the booksellers are right. About the time of year that the public buys books. Not summer or fall but near Christmas and the New Year. Yet for many of us, July and August are the great reading months. Here are three books that we have been working on with a great deal of excitement and honest pleasure.

"The Becomers" by Keith Miller (Word Books) is the continuing account of one who is tracking the Christian life, giving clues of success and failure, opening up visions for others who have not had the experience of the Holy. Miller's earlier books ("Taste of New Wine," etc.) have brought hope and encouragement to many Christian seekers. "The Becomers," like his other writings, is terribly biographic. Yet Miller weaves in and out of family life, personal events, daily happenings, struggles with theology, with a freshness and vitality that is something to cherish.

"Wars and Rumors of Wars" by Roger L. Shinn (Abingdon) is first of all a first-rate war story. It is combat and the chilling record of one man who rose from private to captain, was captured during the Battle of the Bulge and then marched 600 miles through Germany at the close of World War II. Shinn was company commander, prisoner of war, and philosopher who would one day give us this terrific study on the nature and meaning of war.

Today, Dr. Shinn is one of the leading theologians in the United States, teaching in the distinguished Reinhold Niebuhr Chair at Union Seminary in New York. "Wars and Rumors of Wars" will be appreciated by pacifists as well as graduates of West Point. For here is honesty, compassion, and humanity at work. Shinn has not only given us an exciting narrative about men in combat but follows with a penetrating look at the many emotions that only war seems to produce, like heroism: "War asks ordinary people to be heroic. Often they respond. They discover in themselves powers previously unknown. When all the brutality, stupidity and tawdry glamor of war have been debunked — the facts of heroism remain. And something in mankind answers to calls of heroism."

The largest book, at least in size, is Sydney Ahlstrom's "A Religious History of the American People" (Yale Press). Ahlstrom traces the events of the turbulent 60s and the shattering effect upon the churches of America. Although the volume reaches far back to European beginnings, many readers will concentrate on the analysis of contemporary religious experience.

Board takes moral positions on issues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The General Board of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) took moral positions this week on two major issues facing the country.

In a voice vote, the 221-member board recommended amnesty for Vietnam War draft resisters and then unanimously approved a resolution calling the Watergate scandal only one of a series of tragic events related to moral bewilderment in American society.

Both resolutions, as well as all others authorized by the board, go before the church's General Assembly, meeting in October in Cincinnati, for final approval.

Church spokesman said the vote on the amnesty resolution appeared to be close, but there was no request for a count. That matter was considered one of the more controversial proposals to come before the board during its four-day annual meeting in St. Louis that concludes today.

The measure recommended "amnesty for all persons in legal jeopardy for violations of civil or military law related to the Indochina war." The only exception would be for persons convicted of violence, and those cases should receive individual review, the resolution said.

The board said it accepted the belief that amnesty "is most consistent with the gospel of Jesus Christ, whose central message of love and reconciliation embraced all people regardless of condition."

The board later defeated resolutions calling for no amnesty and no position to be taken by the church. It also said it was opposed to any form of national service as a condition for amnesty, calling it "retributive and unrealistic."

Summer revival begins Sunday

NEW MADRID — The Mount Zion Baptist Church will begin their summer revival Sunday, with services at 7:30 each evening. Evangelists for the revival will be James Hamlett and Randy Thomas, with special singing each night, featuring the Southland Harmony Quartet on Wednesday night.

Trinity to have guest speaker

Rev. Jack L. Bishop, associational missionary of the Charleston Baptist Association, will deliver Sunday's message Aug. 5 at the Trinity Baptist Church in Sikeston.

The public is invited to the Bible study at 9:30 a.m. and morning worship at 10:40 a.m.

Evening worship services will be at 6:30, and church training at 7:20 p.m.

Stars, Aces in semifinals

The Jackson Stars romped over Dexter 10-0 Thursday night in the Sikeston 9-10 Year Old Invitational Tourney. Mike Weston pitched the one-hitter to advance the Stars to semifinal play. The Sikeston Aces scored a big win over Oran, 19-8, to place them in the semi-final bracket also.

Taking a 1-0 lead in the first inning, Jackson broke out and put eight big runs on the scoreboard. Dexter remained in a slump and though Becker slapped a single off of Weston, the hit was not followed up and Dexter remained scoreless. In the fourth inning, Jackson picked up another run to stop the play in accordance to the 10-run rule. Weston had the lone extra base hit of the game which was a double. Coots suffered the loss.

After a close first inning, the Sikeston Aces began moving to leave Oran behind. Oran could not match the hitting and running of the Aces and found themselves trailing. Playing consistently, the Sikeston team moved into a comfortable lead and coasted to an easy victory. The Aces controlled the hitting as Howard, Fraser and Watkins all hit doubles with Hurley earning a triple. Earl Daniels was credited with the win while Anderson was given the loss.

Tonight's action will have both the Sikeston teams trying for a shot at the championship title. The All-Stars will be taking on Jackson and the Aces will be facing Illmo-Scott City.

Stars, Reds to semifinals

Two Sikeston teams came out winners Thursday night in the Sikeston Jr. Babe Ruth Tournament. The Reds brought across a single run in the last of the seventh to break a tie game and defeat Jackson 3-2. The All-Stars had an easier time of it as they romped over New Madrid 11-1.

Both teams produced a lone run in the first inning and a struggle followed for a hold on the lead. The Reds slipped ahead in the third inning when they were able to bring another run across, but did not keep the edge for long. Jackson matched that run in the fifth to once again tie the score. The Reds backed up Lasters pitching and Jackson could not pick up a run. Sikeston had the home team advantage which they put to good use in bringing a run into clinch the win. Lambert had the only extra base hit of the game which was a double. Vangilder suffered the loss.

The Sikeston All-Stars jumped on New Madrid in the first inning for three runs and continued their strong hitting through the entire game. Nine runs had been marked on the scoreboard for the All-Stars before New Madrid had a chance to score, but their efforts failed when they could not follow up in their hitting. An additional two runs were added in the final inning to put a finish to the New Madrid team. Palmer was the losing pitcher.

Cheyenne nets Cowboys $123,520

DENVER, Colo. -- Cowboys netted $123,520 Sunday as the world's richest rodeo ended in Cheyenne, Wyo., the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

Biggest winner at the 77th annual Cheyenne Frontier Days rodeo is Bob Marshall of San Martin, Calif., who took the steer wrestling average for $5,282. The win vaulted Marshall far into the lead for the world championship in the event with $21,594 in total winnings this year.

This is the second straight year Marshall won first in steer wrestling at Cheyenne. "Any time that happens, a man has to be real lucky," he said. His time on three steers was 35.8 seconds.

All around winner at the rodeo is Jack Ward of Odessa, Texas, who finished second in the average in both bareback and bull riding to collect $4,541.

Other winners include Darryl Kong of Kaycee, Wyo., formerly of Australia. Kong won first place in saddle bronc riding for $2,951.

Joe Alexander of Cora,

Wyo., in a perpetual "hot streak," took the bareback riding average for $3,226.

Dickie Cox of Walnut Springs, Texas, was first in bull riding, winning $3,065. Cox, who hadn't competed for two and-a-half years, came from behind to win the final go-round, marking 80 on his ride, and emerging first in the average.

Linus Thornton of Dyer, Tenn., took the calf roping with a time of 49.5 seconds on three calves, winning $4,804. And John Miller of Pawhuska, Okla., was first in steer roping, with a total time of 62.2 seconds on three, to win $4,519.

Employee limit removed

What's the Law?

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
Friday, August 3, 1973

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill removing the limit on the number of employees the legislature can hire was signed into law Thursday by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

The governor warned, "I will not allow the provisions of this act to be abused."

Bond noted he has given the General Assembly everything it has asked for in efforts to upgrade the legislature, including an extra $400,000 in appropriations and an increase in the per diem expenses from $10 to $25.

The bill leaves it up to the governor, by veto power over appropriations, to approve or reject the extra hiring and the higher salaries for secretarial help allowed in the bill.

Under present law, the legislature can hire 75 employees for the Senate and 125 for the House. These include secretaries, custodians and doormen.

The bill removes the limit and provides that the minority party in the House can have one secretary per representative. The GOP House members have had to share secretaries.

The accounts committees of each house, in cooperation with the Office of Administration, can raise the secretaries' salaries without legislation. They now average $14 a day.

The House and Senate have hired extra professional staff members this year through the permanent Committee on Fiscal Affairs and the Committee on Legislative Research.

Several employees such as administrative assistants, information officers and assistants to the appropriations committees have been paid through the payrolls of the fiscal affairs or legislative research committees.

The Fiscal Affairs Committee has 14 persons on its payroll and the Legislative Research Committee, 19, directors of the committees say.

Bond said fulltime secretarial help when the legislature is not in session will not be approved except for the employees in the Senate secretary's and House clerk's offices and the research and fiscal affairs committees.

"For several years now the constitutional limitation on the number of employees on the General Assembly has been openly violated by using the committees on legislative research and fiscal affairs to hire additional employees," Bond said. "This bill will put an end to that practice."

Bond said he would favor legislation next year to allow proportionate representation on committees. The Senate has had committee representation proportionate to the number of Republican and Democratic senators. The House has not.

The governor also signed bills to:

—Require forfeiture of charter of any nonprofit corporation which fails to file an annual report and require listing the purposes for which such organizations can be incorporated.

—Provide pay increases of election judges and clerks from $12 to $15 per day, and for supervisory judges not to exceed $17 per day.

—Allow non-metropolitan school districts to hire teachers on a contract basis when they are not otherwise able to gain tenure.

—Remove the $50,000 limit on wrongful death suits and allow the judge or jury to set a higher limit. Bond conceded this might result in higher auto insurance premiums.

—Extend from seven to 15 days the period for filing employee statements under the workmen's compensation laws.

—Allow the retirement benefit for non-teacher school employees to be increased, and allow retirement at 65 with mandatory retirement at 70.

—Authorize the insurance superintendent to license fire insurance adjusters.

Madrid aid payments

total $302,394.78

New MADRID — New Madrid County welfare funds disbursed in July totaled $302,394.78, with the greatest part of that amount going to old age assistance recipients.

Mrs. Laverne Hadder, director of the office, reports 1,497 persons received an average check of $74.92.

Aid to dependent children went to 876 families with 2,224 children. Total expended was $93,954.30 for an average $107.25 check per family.

Permanent and total disability assistance totaling $21,354 was paid to 278 persons for an average check of $76.81.

Aid to the blind amounting to $7,900 was paid to 79 persons who each received $100.

General relief funds accounted for $17,309 which went to 247 families consisting of 266 persons for an average $65.07 check per person.

Services were given to 134 children under child welfare supervision. New Madrid County Court provided $321.40 and state boarding funds of $321.40 were expended for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals.

The deadly eye

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Alice suspected that her husband Bill had been out with another woman she reacted by firing pots, pans and dishes at him as soon as he got home. And as time passed, to Bill's chagrin, her aim got better and better. In fact, her accuracy finally became so sharp that Bill sued to end their marriage on the grounds that it had become too risky to live with her.

"While I can put up with her jealousy," he complained in court, "she's become a real Annie Oakley with the pots and pans and I've got assorted bruises to prove it."

"It's his own fault," was Alice's answer. "He should stop going out with other women. Just the other day I saw him walking arm in arm with a shapely blonde in a department store. And when I saw her figure, I didn't have to figure what he was up to."

"I was up to nothing," was Bill's exasperated answer. "Any reasonable person who saw me would have assumed I was in the department store to do some shopping. Only my wife would have jumped to the wrong conclusion she did. And it can't go on. She nearly killed me with her marksmanship when I got home."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you free Bill from his deadly wife?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that most men have a well-known aversion to going in a department store. Bill's purpose in going, there, must have been for reasons more akin to wooing than shopping. Consequently, concluded the judge, Bill could only blame himself for his troubles, since he had no right to continue associations with other women when he knew they were so offensive to his wife.

DEXTER — With the special city election less than two weeks away, one contest remains on the ballot, City Clerk George McCracken said today.

Candidates have until Saturday noon of this week in which to file, McCracken said.

1. In Memoriam

Memorial
Florence Forrest Taylor
In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother, and great grandmother who passed away August 5, 1972.
The golden gates stood open
One year ago today;
With farewells unspoken
You gently slipped away—
What wouldn't we give to clasp your hand
And your happy face to see,
To hear your voice and see your smile
That meant so much to us.
No one knows the heartaches
Only those who have lost can tell
The grief we bear in silence
For our mother we loved so well.
Sadly missed by her children
Lillian, Ola, Maxine, Benson and
Lillian Ann and all who loved her.

2. Card of Thanks

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to everyone concerned for the upkeep of the Old Sikeston Cemetery in which a part of our family are buried. Flowers are now left on the graves — grass is cared for around the tombstones — making the Old Sikeston Cemetery a place of cheerfulness for those of us who have to visit in respect of our loved ones. It is a place now of beauty to approach. It is not now an eye sore to the City of Sikeston.
The B. B. Forrest children
Lillian, Ola, Maxine, Benson, and Lillian Ann

Deaths

DR. GARLAND A. REYNOLDS

CAPE GIRARDEAU— A leader in treatment of ear, nose and throat disorders recognized throughout the area for his contributions to medicine, Dr. Garland A. Reynolds, died at 8:33 Wednesday night shortly after admission to St. Francis Hospital here of injuries sustained in a fall near his home at 537 Alta Vista earlier that day. He was 58 years old.

Dr. Reynolds was walking the family dog near his home at approximately 7 Wednesday night when he apparently tripped on the ledge of a retaining wall dividing the Reynolds property and the property of C. A. Juden at 527 Alta Vista, falling approximately seven feet and striking the back of his head on a sidewalk at the bottom of the wall. Dr. Reynolds' shoes were found on the ledge of the wall, and it is believed he may have slipped on grass on a slight incline leading down to the wall.

Dr. Reynolds was found unconscious at the bottom of the wall by his wife after the dog returned home without him. Police received a call for assistance at 7:21 p.m., and an ambulance was notified to take him to the hospital. He did not regain consciousness after the accident.

The body was taken to Walther's Funeral Home.

Service will be held at 4 this afternoon at the funeral home with Dr. J. Ray Trotter, pastor of Centenary United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park, and honorary pallbearers will be members of the Cape County Medical Society.

Dr. Reynolds was born Dec. 23, 1914, at Commerce and was the son of the late Ralph E. Reynolds and Mrs. Berenice Johnson Reynolds.

He spent his childhood in the Cape Girardeau-Commerce area, and did undergraduate work at Southeast Missouri State University here and the University of Missouri-Columbia, before entering the University of Tennessee School of Medicine at Knoxville. He graduated in 1937 from that university, and then entered Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, where he studied his specialty, eye, ear, nose and throat medicine.

After completing work at Washington University in 1938, he returned to Cape Girardeau and began practice with the late Dr. M. H. Shelby.

In November of 1941, Dr. Reynolds entered the Army. For five years he was stationed at Camp Crowder at Nevada, where he served as chief of the eye, ear, nose and throat clinic. He retired in 1945 as a lieutenant colonel.

Dr. Reynolds returned here in 1945, where he once again began practice. Since 1945, he had maintained offices in what was once the old Frederick Pott home at 826 Themis.

On Aug. 25, 1945, he married the former Miss Lorraine Turk at Camp Crowder.

Throughout his years of practicing medicine, Dr. Reynolds took an active interest in various medical organizations, and often attended special courses designed to acquaint physicians with the latest trends in medicine. In May he completed a course in electronystagography, a study of inner ear problems, in Texas.

Dr. Reynolds was an active member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology and the American College of Surgeons. He had served as past president of medical staffs at Southeast Missouri Hospital and St. Francis Hospital and was a past president of the Cape County medical staffs at Southeast Missouri Hospital and St. Francis Hospital and was a past president of the Cape County Medical Society.

He also was a diplomat of the American Board of Otolaryngology.

Dr. Reynolds was also a member of the board of Blue Cross and Blue Shield, and had belonged to the Lions Club here. He was a member of Centenary United Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife; one son, James R. Reynolds, of Kennett; his mother Mrs. Berenice Johnson of Cape Girardeau; and one grandson.

Dr. Reynolds was preceded in death by his father, Ralph Reynolds, who died Feb. 5, 1952.

Bridge added to highway ideas

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Construction of a Mississippi River bridge connecting Cape Girardeau and southern Illinois has been added to a long-range plan to develop major highways in the two-state region.

The new span is only in the thinking stage. Nothing definite has been proposed.

The idea for the new bridge was announced Thursday by Robert B. Hendrix, executive vice president of the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce. The chamber for the past six months has been discussing with Illinois and Missouri officials its proposals for construction of routes linking the city to two interstate highways in Illinois and to the Jefferson City-Ozarks region in mid-Missouri.

The chamber's highway committee, headed by A. C. Brase, met again Wednesday to discuss the proposals and decided to enlist the aid of southern Illinois civic, business and governmental leaders in promoting construction of routes that would link Cape Girardeau to Interstate -57 and -24.

The chamber previously had cited what it calls an urgent need for direct routes to I-57 and I-24 in order to develop a "great market" for Cape Girardeau's business community. Mr. Hendrix said last January that southern Illinois trade here has suffered because of poor highway connections.

"Development of these routes would be good for southern Illinois too," Hendrix said. "It would open up southern Illinois to more trade. It would not be a one-way proposition for the benefit of Cape Girardeau alone."

The chamber would like to see four-lane highways connecting the two Illinois superhighways with Interstate -55 at the west edge of Cape Girardeau. But Hendrix said the group would settle for two-lane routes provided they could be expanded to four times.

"Perhaps four-lane highways would be much to start, but we think we can sell the highway commissions of the two states on two-lane routes," Hendrix said. "We would hope they (the commissions) would purchase enough right of way so that two more lanes could be added later."

The chamber has suggested the new bridge be four-lanes wide and that it replace the present span opened Sept. 12, 1928. The nearly 45-year old structure would be eliminated under the chamber plan.

"If a four-lane bridge is considered out of the question, we would then seek a new two-lane bridge," Hendrix said. "It would be a companion bridge to the present one."

Hendrix revealed the chamber also has asked Illinois to raise Highway 146 from the bridge through East Cape Girardeau to the junction with Highway 3. Portions of Route 146 were under water during the spring Mississippi River flood. Persons who had to cross the river daily to or from Cape Girardeau had to be ferried.

The chamber executive said efforts to promote construction of a route from I-55 into mid-Missouri are continuing. The new highway would provide a direct route from the Cape Girardeau area to Jefferson City-Lake of the Ozarks region.

A route providing better access to the Ozarks area of Springfield in southwest Missouri also is under study, he said.

Hendrix said highway officials of both states "are receptive" to the proposals but have made no promises. Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond and Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois also have been contacted.

"I think we have discussed these proposals by telephone and in person many times," Hendrix said. "They (Illinois and Missouri) haven't shot us down yet."

"I think we have a good case," he added. "We are not looking for commitments from either state in the next year. Ours is a long-range plan."
